

Ever wonder what that project down the hall from you is all about?

Check out FYI, a series of lunchtime lectures and discussions for the School of Social Work community. Bring your lunch and join us once a month to hear the latest findings and facts.

FYI...You might be surprised what you learn.

2007 Fall Semester Topics

September 11	Gary Nelson Jon Abels Duke University Center for International Development	Want to be a Great Leader? It Depends on How You Think
October 9	Mat Despard	Covering the Unsinsured: What Works at the Local Level?
November 13	Chris Howell Gary Nelson	Coming Home: An Overview of the Rural Child Welfare Success Project

2008 Spring Semester Topics

January 15	Anne Jones	Strengthening Relationships Among Low-income, Unmarried, Expecting Couples
February 12	Paul Smokowski	Mapping Acculturation Trajectories: How Cultural Risk Factors and Assets Influence Mental Health in Latino Adolescents
March 18	Rebecca Macy	Helping Survivors of Partner and Sexual Violence: Consensus Service Delivery Practices Among North Carolina Providers
April 8	Michal Grinstein-Weiss Mat Despard	Building Wealth: The Importance of Banks for Low and Moderate Income Families

All presentations take place from 12:15–1:30pm, Room 300, Tate-Turner-Kuralt Building. Dessert provided.