

The Ethics of Evidence-Based Practice in Child and Adolescent Mental Health

Program Description:

This session will provide an overview of evidence-based practice and the use of evidence-based treatment interventions in children's mental health. Key ethical issues inherent in evidence-based practice process will be discussed in relationship to the delivery of child and adolescent mental health services.

Program Objectives:

Upon completion participants will be able to:

- Define evidence-based practice and evidence-based treatment interventions and distinguish between the two.
- Identify connections between evidence-based practice and ethical practice in the treatment of child and adolescent mental health.
- Discuss key ethical dilemmas in the implementation of evidence-based treatment interventions.

Target Audience This program intended for psychologists, social workers, licensed counselors and other health and mental health professionals interested in this topic.

Agenda

9:30 – 10:30 AM	Introductions and Introduction to Evidence-Based Practice
10:30 - 11:30 AM	What We Know About Ethics and Evidence-Based Practice
11:30 - 12:00 Noon	Break
12:30 – 1:30 PM	Ethical Challenges with Children and Evidence-Based Practice
1:30 – 2:00 PM	Questions/Discussion/Closing

Credit

4.0 - 6.0 hours

Faculty

Betsy (Sarah E.) Bledsoe, PhD, MPhil, MSW is associate professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Social Work, principal investigator of the Community Voices Project, principal investigator at the National Center for Trauma Education and Workforce Development, co-investigator at the Family Informed Trauma Treatment Center and a consultant with the Center for Adjustment, Resilience & Recovery – all part of the National Child Traumatic Stress Network funded by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration. She received a doctoral degree and Master of Philosophy from Columbia University School of Social Work, a Master of Social Work from the University of Pittsburgh and a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Tennessee. Her research reflects over two decades of experience conducting community based as well as and national studies to strengthen the mental health of adults, adolescents, children, and families, particularly those surviving poverty, discrimination, and trauma. She has expertise in mental health services, intervention, and implementation research, with a focus on mood, anxiety, and trauma during the perinatal period and beyond. Her research has examined the implementation and dissemination of evidence-based practices and empirically supported interventions with attention to the cultural adaptation of these practices to increase access to historically marginalized communities and populations including Black Indigenous and People of Color, individuals living in rural areas and individuals surviving poverty.

A community-engaged scholar, Dr. Bledsoe is dedicated to partnering with communities to strengthen the mental health of children, adults, families, and communities. Her research and scholarship have been supported with funding from federal and state agencies, foundations, and private donors. Her research, clinical expertise, and certification as a practitioner, supervisor, and trainer in multiple empirically supported interventions inform her teaching of primarily direct practice courses including Brief Treatment, Interpersonal Psychotherapy, and Motivational Interviewing.

Dr. Bledsoe has published over 90 peer-reviewed articles, chapters, abstracts, and manuals, and has given over 295 peer-reviewed and invited presentations at national and international venues. A Society for Social Work and Research Fellow, her work has been recognized with awards from the Office of the UNC-CH Provost, UNC School of Social Work, UNC Center for Global Initiatives, Council on Social Work Education, Office of Behavioral and Social Science Research, and the American Society of Clinical Psychopharmacology. She has been a Guest Professor at the University of Toronto, University of Maryland at Baltimore, and Renmin University, Beijing, China. Additionally, she has been consulting editor for Social Work Research and Social Work and on the editorial review board of Research on Social Work Practice, Social Work in Mental Health, and Social Work in Health Care.